CHAIRMAN'S WELCOME

As can be seen from the CEO update, the progress that has been made in the last year has been considerable.

SCOTT MARTIN
CHAIRMAN'S WELCOME

Welcome to Tennis Scotland's 2018 Annual Report. There has been so much positive development in the past year for tennis in Scotland, the team now led by new Chief Executive Blane Dodds making significant progress in our strategic aims to develop the sport across the country.

As can be seen from the CEO update, the progress that has been made in the last year has been considerable. This is most exemplified by the Indoor Tennis fund for Scotland which is the largest capital investment in our history secured in partnership with the LTA and sportscotland. I am now confident that we are well on our way to delivering our target of 10 new indoor tennis centres for Scotland over the coming years.

This has been complimented by the exciting news of the winning bid from Tennis Scotland to host the GB National Academy in Stirling for the best 14-18 in Great Britain. This will meet that Tennis Scotland will be able to offer a World Class Programme and the complete player pathway for the very first time in its history.

This Academy's development took another significant stride forward recently with the appointment of a world-class coaching team, renowned Brazilian coach Leo Azevedo supported by Colin Fleming, Esteban Carril and Leon Smith, a genuine coup for tennis in Scotland and Britain.

Here at Tennis Scotland there has been much development at Board level with the assistance of the Executive team to establish a more robust governance framework.

This includes new sub committees reporting to the board, such as audit and finance and safeguarding committees, together with working groups with non-executive and executive officers progressing key areas such as performance, participation, workforce, competition and commercial. I am sure this more robust platform will not only support the Executive team, but it will also provide a sound process for the delivery of our strategic objectives.

We have a number of exciting projects in development which will be coming to fruition in 2019 that we believe will make a significant impact. Core funding continues to be a challenge albeit Tennis Scotland continues to punch above its weight in terms of return on investment and the delivery of our key performance indicators – for example membership growth has nearly doubled over recent years which is bucking the trend nationally in Great Britain.

I would like to thank the CEO who has worked tirelessly with all staff at Tennis Scotland to gain real momentum for change and progress over the last year and I would also like to thank the Board for their significant investment in time and expertise in assisting in the development of tennis in Scotland.

CEO INTRODUCTION

BLANE DODDS
CEO INTRODUCTION

Since January 2018, when I was proud to be appointed Chief Executive of Tennis Scotland, I have been greatly encouraged by the progress made on and off the court and I'm equally excited by the opportunities that lie ahead in 2019 and beyond.

Much of my first year in the role has been spent travelling the country to meet with the many essential stakeholders responsible for cultivating a thriving sport at all levels: from tennis club representatives, district managers, coaches, volunteers, officials and, of course, players of all ages.

It has been an enlightening experience and I have been impressed by the collective will to take the game forward in this country, by capitalising on the success of our crown jewels and role models – Andy and Jamie Murray, and Gordon Reid – but also in improving every aspect of the game at grassroots. Improving and enhancing facilities throughout the country is an essential part of that strategic direction to grow participation and create a world-class environment for players to thrive.

To that end, we were delighted to have secured £15m of funding from the Lawn Tennis Association and sportscotland to create an additional ten indoor tennis facilities.

We will continue to work in partnership with local authorities; trusts, clubs and universities to provide indoor facilities in areas that will encourage growth in participation and help bridge the facilities gap.

At the time of going to print we now have an agreed Application Process together with 25 expressions of interest, 10 stage 1 applications received with five progressed to Stage 2 of the process. Therefore I am delighted we are well on our way towards delivering a network of new indoor tennis facilities across Scotland for our tennis communities.

Confirmation that Scotland will also house a new national performance academy will enable us to identify and create the next generation of elite players from Scotland and Great Britain. The multimillion-pound investment is a significant new boost to performance tennis in Scotland and the recruitment process for a new Performance Head Coaching Team has now been completed with a truly world class line-up including head coach Leo Azevedo, along with Colin Fleming and Esteban Carril, all supported by Leon Smith.

The first intake of pupils for the Academy will be August 2019 and this year has very much been the setup year to establish the Academy to go live at this time.

We have also successfully hosted the first ever $100,000 ATP Challenger Tour event in Scotland, the Glasgow Trophy Tennis Tournament, held at Scotstoun in May, and we look forward to bringing more world-class competitions and athletes to Scotland in 2019.

The team at Tennis Scotland has worked tirelessly across all of our strategic objectives and you will see some of the many successes summarised in the next few pages and brought to life throughout this report. In summary, a significant amount of work has been undertaken at all levels of the game and we will continue to look at new and innovative ways to support clubs and venues to increase participation opportunities and enhance the tennis experience for players of all ages and abilities.

Finally, I would like to thank the Chair, board and staff at Tennis Scotland for their focus and drive, and the network of coaches, volunteers, officials, parents, ambassadors, Local Authority and Trust partnerships - as well as our investment partners sportscotland and the LTA, and finally our commercial partners, all for their ongoing commitment to growing our sport in Scotland.

FACILITIES UPDATE AND CASE STUDIES

Throughout the last four years (2015 – 2018) the Tennis Scotland Community Fund has supported the development of facilities the length and breadth of the country, investing £1m grant funding and £500,000 interest free loan funding in partnership with the LTA. Some 32 projects have benefited ranging from Thurso in the north to Annan in the south and Campbeltown in the west to St. Andrews in the east. Through this fund Tennis Scotland has supported projects which have upgraded or installed new floodlights, built new or refurbished outdoor courts, redeveloped the all-important clubhouse environment and even delivered indoor and covered courts through the projects in St. Andrews, Rothiemurchus and Aviemore. In total 109 courts have been built or upgraded as a result of this fund.

£1 MILLION GRANT FUNDING

FROM the Tennis Scotland Community Fund Throughout 2015 – 2018

In order to deliver these projects Tennis Scotland has worked closely with sportscotland who have invested more than £2.8m in tennis projects across the country. However none of these projects would have happened without the hard work and dedication of the many club volunteers and committee members who work tirelessly to secure additional funding and raise club funds. Overall, the Tennis Scotland Community Fund has supported projects worth a total of £9.3m with 2018 seeing over £1m worth of projects delivered.

The £15m Transforming Scottish Indoor Tennis Fund was opened for application during the summer of 2018 following work with our partners the LTA and sportscotland to finalise the criteria and process. Since opening and as of the time of writing 10 applications have been received from projects across the country with five of these now progressed to stage 2 of the process which sees the detailed technical design, planning permission and finalised business plans and community network plan developed. The response to the fund from partners across the country has been fantastic and we look forward to continuing to work with existing and new applicants, awarding funding and getting projects on site in 2019.

Craiglockhart Leisure & Tennis Centre

MORE THAN £2.8 MILLION

invested by sportscotland in tennis projects across the country

The redevelopment of the courts will ensure that Craiglockhart continues to provide top class tennis facilities, both indoor and out.

Case Study Craiglockhart Leisure & Tennis Centre

The outdoor courts at Craiglockhart Tennis Centre have been home to all levels of tennis for many years with famous names such as Ivan Lendl, Gabriela Sabatini, Jimmy Connors and John McEnroe all having played at the centre, as well as countless local adults and children taking their first steps on court. The courts, however, had become increasingly unplayable due to a worn-out surface and issues with drainage. Tennis Scotland therefore worked closely with Edinburgh Leisure and sportscotland to redevelop the courts and ensure the centre continues to provide a top-class competition venue for Scottish tennis for many years to come.

The project involved the redevelopment of the four-court block at the front of the centre creating a new five court block of artificial clay courts with LED floodlighting as well as the resurfacing of Centre Court with artificial clay. The new courts were opened with a Festival of Tennis in September 2018 including free tennis tasters for children and adults. Centre Court once again played host to top class tennis with an exhibition doubles match featuring former ATP Doubles Top 20 player Colin Fleming and Jamie Murray's coach Alan MacDonald, with the match officiated by members of Tennis Scotland's Young Officials Academy.

The redevelopment of the courts will ensure that Craiglockhart continues to provide top class tennis facilities, both indoor and out and will continue to be a key competition venue for Scotland, including hosting the annual Scottish Junior Open and Junior International.

Beechgrove Tennis Club

Case Study Beechgrove Tennis Club

Moffat has a long and illustrious history as a 'Tennis Town'. The tennis club in Moffat was one of the founding members of the Scottish Lawn Tennis Association (now Tennis Scotland) in 1895 and The Scottish Tennis Championships were held in Moffat from 1895 to 1907. Unfortunately in the 1990s the courts became badly maintained and were rarely used until the club was rejuvenated as Beechgrove Tennis Club.

Since then the club has gone from strength to strength and it was vital that the courts were refurbished from the Blaes courts which had been laid in 1925. The project was not just for the good of the club but also to welcome and encourage the local community as well as the wider tennis community who attend the South of Scotland Tennis Championships hosted at Beechgrove each year.

The club worked hard to raise their own funds towards the project but also developed applications to The Holywood Trust, sportscotland, Dumfries & Galloway Council and Tennis Scotland to raise close to the £300,000 which was required. Funding was approved and work began to upgrade the surface of the six courts, install floodlights to three courts and ensure disabled access as well as access to the community through Clubspark SmartAccess. The court project was completed in 2018 with the SmartAccess gates being added in spring 2019.

CLUBS AND COMMUNITY

Tennis clubs across the country also engaged in a series of events and competitions throughout the year which play a huge role in retaining members across the country.

Davies Cup Kids Day

First of all, a huge thank you to all venues in Scotland for their incredible efforts in meeting the new minimum standards required for registration. Tennis Scotland would like to extend a special thanks to everyone involved in getting their club over the line and in turn ensuring that tennis remains at the forefront of safeguarding standards in sport.

Clubs continue to be the heartbeat of tennis in Scotland with figures bucking the trend in the UK for participation. Club membership continued to rise in 2018 with figures up from 56,421 to 57,494. Tennis club membership in Scotland is a real success story with figures doubling over the last 10 years, in part down to the 'Murray effect' but of course none of the success would be possible without the hardworking club volunteers and coaches who make our sport happen.

Tennis Scotland Club Development

Tennis clubs in Scotland have achieved growth in membership once again through the delivery of a range of programmes and activities supported by the Tennis Scotland development team. In 2018 there were 115 Great British Tennis Weekend events and Open Days throughout the year, opening club doors to the community.

Tennis clubs also hosted 205 TFK courses engaging with 1,370 new kids to tennis. Tennis clubs across the country also engaged in a series of events and competitions throughout the year which play a huge role in retaining members across the country.

Tennis Scotland throughout 2018 has been delighted to offer continued partnership funding to nine local tennis development officers who support local delivery across the country and are an invaluable asset to tennis in Scotland.

It is exciting development for tennis in Scotland and a number of Community Tennis Networks are being established across the country to support the wider development of the sport, with many networks linked closely to potential new indoor facilities in priority areas.

More than 60 delegates from 48 clubs attended a packed programme

Tennis Scotland works tirelessly to support as much club and community tennis activity as possible. This support is underpinned by the coordination of 23 local tennis development group meetings involving more than 150 clubs across the country, led by Tennis Scotland's development team.

Tennis Scotland was delighted once again to welcome clubs from across Scotland to the TS Club Development Conference in November 2018. More than 60 delegates from 48 clubs attended a packed programme, details of which are still available through ClubServe or on the TS website.

Special thanks to our volunteer speakers from the clubs including Lanark, Aboyned and Longniddry. Feedback was once again very positive with 40% rating the conference as excellent, 56% very good and 4% as good!

Tennis Scotland, in partnership with GB Sport (now ServeSport), was delighted to launch ClubServe in February 2018. The free online club support software is designed to support club committees by providing a variety of useful club management tools and resources. By the end of the 2018 nearly 50% of Scottish clubs registered with the service and now the LTA are piloting the software with a view to rolling out across British Tennis.

Parks Kids Day

Tennis in parks continues to be a popular way for people in Scotland to play the sport. Tennis Scotland works in partnership with key local authorities to develop a range of programmes and opportunities to increase participation including 7 number of Tennis For Free sites. With support from Tennis Scotland more parks across the country are being made more accessible than ever through the use of Clubspark online court booking and organised sessions such as Tennis For Free. In 2018, there were seven Tennis For Free Park sites in Scotland with 4,000 attendees across the year.

Davies Cup Kids Day

Davis Cup Kids Day

The Davis Cup once again returned to the Emirates arena in September and this time Tennis Scotland with the support of the LTA decided to go bigger and better with the involvement of local school children. In addition to the 1,000 local children who attended schools festivals throughout the week the GB Team agreed to host a DC Kids day with over 3,000 children attending.

A lucky few were also picked from the crowd to have a go at some activities from the Tennis for Kids programme on the match court with the team including Jamie Murray, Cameron Norrie, Jay Clarke, Dan Evans and Dom Inglot along with Captain Leon Smith.

The day was all about inspiring the local kids to take part in the Tennis For Kids programme which has seen 1,500 new players introduced to tennis in Scotland each year however it was clear that the pros were blown away by the reception they got from the Glasgow schools!

1,500 new players introduced to tennis in Scotland

More and more clubs in Scotland continue to modernise and develop their online presence by embracing ClubSpark, a free benefit of Tennis Scotland registration. Tennis Scotland now have 70% clubs in Scotland registered with Clubspark, taking advantage of all of the exciting functions it offers to support clubs in the day to day running of their venues.

WORKFORCE AND COACHES

The development of the Scottish tennis workforce continues to be one of the key strategic pillars for Tennis Scotland and 2018 has seen a number of initiatives being developed and progressed.

The formal coach education programme continued with 23 courses delivered across Scotland from the Scottish Borders to the Highlands. The programme saw 244 coaches completing a qualification, with many of them starting their coaching journey for the first time on a Level 1 course and others progressing to Level 2 and Level 3 awards. Fifteen coaches also started their Level 4 Senior Club Coach journey in August with this course finishing in early 2019.

The development of existing and new coaches out with the formal qualifications programme is also hugely important.

With a high number of coaches being trained each year it is also important that the tutor workforce is developed; 2018 saw Ian Woodcraft retire from the tutor group and we thank him for his considerable contribution to this programme over a significant number of years. Stephanie Eadon and Ian Cannon have also joined the tutor group and we welcome them to the team.

The development of existing and new coaches out with the formal qualifications programme is also hugely important. Tennis Scotland delivered a number of Continuous Professional Development (CPD) courses in 2018 with 341 individual coaches attending these sessions. This included training for the popular Tennis For Kids programme where 70 coaches had the benefit of working with Leon Smith, Colin Fleming and Annabel Croft. A number of international speakers were also welcomed to Scotland, including; Mark Kovacs, a performance physiologist from America who specialises in movement on court; and Emma Doyle, an international high-performance coach and motivational speaker from Australia specialising in unleashing female potential. Additional sessions also looked at developing the serve, a focus on mini tennis and a disability tennis masterclass with Karen Ross.

The workforce, of course, is not just about coaches and both formal qualifications and CPD workshops were held for our tennis officials, including the launch of the Tennis Scotland Young Officials Academy. The officials programme will continue to develop throughout 2019.

Significant work was also undertaken in the area of Welfare with Safeguarding and First Aid courses continuing to be delivered by Tennis Scotland. Last year saw the introduction of the Safeguarding Minimum Standards and every club, park, school and university that is registered with Tennis Scotland has now got a fully trained Welfare Officer in post.

This was a significant element of the workforce programme in 2018 and our thanks goes to the hundreds of volunteers who have supported this programme and taken on Welfare Officers roles at their clubs and venues.

Case Study – Young Officials Academy

In 2018 Tennis Scotland launched the Young Officials Academy as we strive to attract the next generation of officials. The Young Officials Academy recruited 14 new officials between the age of 16 and 24 on a two-year programme. The Academy weekend in May was an intense weekend of learning where the officials qualified as Line and Chair Umpires.

The Young officials have since gone on to officiate at the ATP Brodies event, charity events, Scottish Junior International, GB Pro series as well as local Tennis Scotland events.

The programme will continue throughout 2019 with the officials being mentored by three international Scottish officials John Frame, Olwyn Roy and Sandra Leitch, who will pass on their knowledge and experience from Wimbledon finals, Olympic Games and Davis Cup ties. We are looking forward to seeing the progression in 2019 with the officials aspiring to be Line Umpires at Wimbledon in 2020.

The Young Officials Academy recruited 14 new officials between the age of 16 and 24 on a two year programme.

Case Study – She Rallies

She Rallies, founded by Judy Murray, was launched two years ago to empower and grow the female tennis workforce, with the ultimate goal of attracting and retaining more women and girls in the sport.

Scotland now has five ambassadors: Shona Ross (West), Kate Bull (South), Maggie Campbell (North), Mel Benson (East) and Fiona Bennie (Central). Throughout 2018 the ambassadors delivered 22 courses with 293 activators trained and 51% of activators now active across Scotland. In 2018 Scottish Ambassador Shona Ross received the UK She Rallies Ambassador of the Year for Most Active Activators, which showcases her dedication and commitment to the programme.

In addition to the She Rallies courses and mentoring the ambassadors have been delivering a number of Tennis Scotland funded events, such as; North Berwick Beach event, Craiglockhart Court Open day, Dundee Girls Festival, Christmas Parties and Fun Days.

DISABILITY AND INCLUSION

Working with our key partner, The Tennis Foundation, Disability Tennis development has once again enjoyed a fantastic year. The past year saw a 28% increase (from 466 in 2017 up to 546) in the number of weekly disabled players that take part in structured sessions within the disability tennis venues and a 32% increase (583 players in 2017, up to 775) in the number of monthly players. With more than 25 venues delivering disability sessions across Scotland, tennis is becoming more inclusive and accessible to the whole community. Outwith the specific impairment programmes that the disability tennis network venues deliver for Deaf, Learning Disability, Visually Impaired and Wheelchair players, the number of inclusive clubs that are integrating disabled players into clubs also continues to grow.

Three Scots, Dominic Iannotti, Anna McBride and Luke Turnbull, represented GB at the INAS World and European Games played in Paris in July, captained by Scotland's Karen Ross.

Great Britain completed the 2018 INAS World Tennis Championships with a total of 23 medals in Paris July. Played concurrently with the European Championships, the World Championships saw more than 40 of the world's elite para-athlete tennis players with a learning disability compete to be crowned world champions in men's and women's singles and doubles, mixed doubles and an overall team competition.

Winning 10 medals in the World Championships & 13 medals in the European Championships, team GB – comprising Anna McBride (14, Dunfermline, Scotland), Fabrice Higgins (23, Chorley, Lancashire), Dominic Iannotti (20, Prestwick, Scotland), Thomas Mellor (28, Cheltenham, Gloucestershire) and Luke Turnbull (14, North Berwick, Scotland) competed against players from nine different nations, with the team facing off in round robin groups in singles, doubles and mixed before going into a main draw to compete for podium positions.

Speaking of his performance, Scotland's Dominic Iannotti – who won an outstanding seven medals, including two golds, commented:

"This is my third time representing Great Britain at an INAS games. It's a great honour to be selected to represent my country again and I always enjoy coming to a new venue and experiencing a new city."

Fellow Scot, Anna McBride, added:

"I feel so proud to have represented my country at an international level. I was a little bit nervous coming into the games, but once I settled here I really enjoyed meeting new people and experiencing the atmosphere. I particularly enjoyed playing mixed doubles with Dominic and felt we were a great team! I'll definitely use this experience to push on in the future!"

Coached by the Tennis Foundation's Head of Coaching and Talent Karen Ross, selection for Great Britain's INAS World Tennis Championships team is part of a high performance elite pathway for players with a learning disability, accessed through a strong collaboration between Britain's leading tennis charity, the Tennis Foundation, and the UK Sports Association (UKSA), the official Great Britain member of INAS.

EDUCATIONAL ACTIVITIES (SCHOOLS, FURTHER EDUCATION & HIGHER EDUCATION)

In another successful year, the growth of tennis in the education sector has continued throughout 2018. Working with local partners has enabled schools to introduce tennis to children in an engaging, inclusive and accessible way with the number of schools delivering tennis increasing. Tennis Scotland has also been able to help universities and colleges widen the student experience by increasing the opportunities to participate and compete.

Schools of Tennis

Barrhead High School, Galashiels Academy and Inverness Royal Academy were chosen as three new schools to take part in the School of Tennis Programme in Scotland. These new schools will join the nine schools currently on the programme taking the total to 12 state secondary schools in Scotland. The programme aims to radically change the way tennis is delivered in secondary schools to make it more relevant and engaging for teenagers. Evidence suggests a transformational effect in many schools with 94% of stakeholders stating they have witnessed personal development in those taking part in the programme and 90% believing the programme has increased the confidence and competence of both participants and ambassadors.

Each school is eligible to receive up to £5,000 worth of support in the first year of the programme with further funding available in Years 2 and 3 based on an annual progress review, along with developmental support and resource from Tennis Scotland.

Barrhead HS, Galashiels Academy and Inverness Royal Academy will join the existing nine Schools of Tennis in Scotland, which include Boroughmuir HS, Dunblane HS, Firhill HS, Forres Academy, Hyndland Secondary, James Gillespie's HS, Liberton HS, Musselburgh Grammar and St Mungo's HS.

Tennis Scotland has been working with Edinburgh College and Dundee and Angus College closely for the past two years and that partnership has grown and developed very well.

Edinburgh College underpins a local tennis community with as many as 90 college students helping to deliver mass participation events to schoolchildren. This year nine festivals have been delivered across the city in partnership with Edinburgh Council's sport development team. Roughly 1,500 pupils will have been given access to tennis in a fun, competitive environment across six different local clubs.

Positive results are not just being seen in tennis but by the college as students are developing their employability skills in ways that may not be otherwise possible, and it is being recognised.

OJ Brown, who is a lecturer at Edinburgh College, has hailed the work being put in by Tennis Scotland, commenting

"The funding [from the Tennis Foundation] prevents any barriers stopping our students getting on a tennis court, and the link between ourselves and Tennis Scotland is seamless which has allowed the tennis programme to run smoothly."

It is a great opportunity for our students to support the local community, and ultimately gives the students an experience of being involved in the running of a mass participation event in a sport that has huge profile in Scotland at the moment."

Higher Education

Scotland's university sector continues to dominate at all levels with the University of Stirling women's team crowned champions of European universities at the EUSA Games in Coimbra, Portugal. The Stirling team of Maia Lumsden, Ingrid Vojcinakova and, 2018 BUCS Individual Championships Singles winner, Natasha Fourouclas, defeated the University of Bordeaux (France) to claim the title of best university tennis team in Europe!

Closer to home, success continues for Stirling as the men's 1st team won the BUCS National league, with the women's finishing 2nd, progressing onward to win the Championship.

St Andrews University completed their four-court indoor centre to complement the existing outdoor courts and world class sports centre. This represents the first indoor development in the university sector in recent years, while the student tennis network of ambassadors was formalised with the appointment of chair Nick Smelt and creation of a series of recreational student events. This includes the inaugural British Social Challenge at RGU and the touchtennis Varsity Cup which complements the SSS individual and doubles Championship.

JACOB FEARNLEY

- Won ITF Grade 1 and Boys Singles titles in Russia and Spain
- Represented Great Britain in the European Summer Cup

PERFORMANCE STRATEGY

British Tennis Player Pathway

A new Performance Strategy was introduced for British Tennis in January 2018. This introduced National Academies, Regional Player Development Centres (RPDC) and Local Player Development Centres (LPDC) in a new player pathway designed to make Great Britain one of the most respected nations in the world for player development.

National Academy

Tennis Scotland won the tender to operate the GB National Tennis Academy in partnership with the University of Stirling, the sportsScotland institute of sport, University of Stirling and Dollar Academy. This represents the biggest revenue investment in the history of Scottish tennis. For the first time, Scotland will host and deliver the complete junior pathway. The Academy is scheduled to start in August 2019. National Academies will deliver a pro-style, inter-disciplinary training environment tailored specifically to prepare players for the demands of pro tennis with the specific objective of creating an oversupply of players for the Pro Scholarship Programme (PSP). As mentioned previously, we are thrilled to have recruited a world-class coaching team in Leo Azevedo, Colin Fleming, Esteban Carril and Leon Smith. Tennis now becomes only the second sport in Scotland with a British High Performance Programme.

Regional Player Development Centres (RPDCs)

Tennis Scotland successfully applied for a Regional Player Development Centre (RPDC), adopting a network approach, significantly different from English counterparts, enabling us to reduce travel time and costs and create additional capacity to provide opportunities to a greater number of players.

Tennis Scotland established centres in Edinburgh, Glasgow and Stirling with circa 50 players engaged in the programme. RPDCs will deliver local affordable and high quality training and coaching with the specific objective of producing an oversupply of players for National Academies and/or the National Age Group Programme.

The LTA approved 20 Scottish players for a Regional Training subsidy against a GB-wide selection criteria.

Local Player Development Centres (LPDCs) and Wee Aces

Tennis Scotland supported applications from a number of Scottish clubs and centres and were delighted with announcement of 5 LPDCs in Scotland:

- Aberdeen Tennis Centre
- Adam Brown Tennis Academy at Gleneagles
- Borders Tennis Centre
- Prestwick Tennis and Fitness
- University of St Andrews (still to commence)

LPDCs provide an important first step on the route from beginners' mini-red to major tournament success. LPDCs will attract athletically gifted children aged between seven and 10, into the game through a systematic and inclusive talent attraction mechanism, nurturing their tennis development through affordable, high-quality local training, to produce an oversupply of players for RPDCs.

The LPDCs in Scotland are supplemented by 'Wee Aces' programmes being run by Tennis West of Scotland and East of Scotland LTA.

GB Pro Series Scottish Championships

The start of the year always begins with some high level tennis at the GB Pro-Series Scottish Championships at Scotstoun CITC with Scott Griekspoor and Paula Badosa Gibert the 2018 Scottish champions.

There was a large support on Finals Day, with University of Stirling student Maia Lumsden in the Women's Final, Maia, a wildcard for the tournament finished runner-up, losing to Badosa Gibert. Maia was joined by 11 other upcoming Scottish senior and junior players.

Seven Scots competed in the successful Glasgow Trophy. It would be remiss of Tennis Scotland not to champion the successful staging of this ATP Challenger Event, boasting the largest prize pot ever made available in Scotland.

Two new ATP Challenger events in Britain were added to the calendar ahead of the grass court season, creating more playing opportunities for British players in the UK. The Glasgow Trophy was the culmination of sustained LTA and Tennis Scotland efforts to bring an event of this magnitude to Scotland, allowing the best young Scots to test themselves against some of the game's top talents. Jonny O'Mara performed best of all Scottish players, managing to reach the final of the men's doubles event.

The Scottish Inter Club Challenge Cup 2018 took place in June at Craiglockhart. This event is the premier club competition in Scotland with 86 Clubs from across the Country taking part.

Both finals displayed club doubles at its best. With 85 Scottish club teams entering this season's competition and more than 500 players participating, Scotland's premier inter-club competition goes from strength to strength.

The finals day was a fantastic climax to this year's completion with any two of the four finalists in with a chance of becoming champions as the final points in both competitions were played.

In the women's final, Blackhall won the deciding championship match tie-break to retain the title against Newlands. The men's final was equally compelling for the large number of spectators in attendance. David Lloyd Aberdeen, champions in 2014 and 2016 beat Newlands 6-3 to become champions once again.

Nicolas Rosenzweig Scotland's Inter-Club League Competition

Team Tennis Scotland Scotland's Inter-Club League Competition

The Adult Team Tennis Leagues 2018 were won by Kinnoull winning the Men's Division 1 and Glasgow University winning the Women's Division 1. Some 40 teams took part in the leagues, four Men's Divisions and two Women's Divisions, with 223 players competing. Both teams will now represent Scotland next summer in the British play-offs.

The second event in Tennis Scotland's Indoor Championships circuit concluded at Newlands the Open championship semi-finals and finals were played. Nicolas Rosenzweig, the 31-year-old French player now a performance coach at University of Stirling, won the men's title for the first time, beating Bruce Strachan 6-4 6-1 in the final.

Grace Emma Eland, the top seed from Carlisle, took the women's title with a 6-2 6-2 victory over Edinburgh's Lucia Rizza who, unseeded, had won through to the final.

In the doubles' events, Jennifer and Caitlin Steel of the host club successfully defended their title with a straight sets 6-3 6-1 win over Emily Gates and Ellie Crosbie from Prestwick. University of Stirling pair Scott MacAulay and Kieran Macarty won the men's doubles championship. The favourites beat 4th seeds Luke Laws and Callum Todd of Durham & Cleveland 6-4 6-4 in the final match.

Tennis Scotland Open Tour 2018

The Tennis Scotland Open Tour continued to develop after the successful pilot in 2017. An Autumn Progressive draw event took place between October – December.

The competition had more than 400 players take part playing locally in one of 13 TS300 events with the winners moving on to four TS500 events, the winners of which progressed to the TS1000 which was held at the National Tennis Centre in Stirling. Nicolas Rosenzweig beat James Mackinlay in the men's final 6-1 6-1 with Ingrid Vojcinakova beating Natasha Fourouclas 6-2 6-2. James Mackinlay and Patrick Young won the men's doubles with Lucia Rizza and Rosie Sterk winning the ladies' doubles.

Tennis Scotland Masters Scottish National Championships

New for 2018 the Tennis Scotland Open Tour expanded and teamed up with local Grade 3 Open competitions (TS1000 Series Events) to create a calendar of tournaments linked to the new TS Open Tour Leaderboard. The top 16 male and female players on the Leader Board at the end of the year competed in December for the Tennis Scotland Masters title which also included the Scottish National Championship trophy.

Top seed Maia Lumsden followed up her impressive semi-final win over Lucia Rizza to beat Natasha Fourouclas by the same score (6-2, 6-0) in the women's singles final. Nicolas Rosenzweig – second seed in the men's draw – had enough left in the tank following his three-set success over wildcard Johannes Monday in the semi-final to surge to a stunning 6-2, 6-1 win over top seed James Mackinlay in the men's singles final.

Mackinlay at least enjoyed some revenge when pairing with Patrick Young to overcome Rosenzweig and Euan McGinn in the men's doubles final. Meanwhile, Lucia Rizza and Rosie Sterk defeated Eilidh McLaughlin and Zoe Moffat 6-3, 6-3 in the women's doubles final. The Tennis Scotland Open Tour will be back in 2019.

Juniors

The Scottish Indoor Junior Championships was first event of the 2018 Scottish Indoor Championship circuit taking place at the Scotstoun Leisure Centre, Glasgow.

128 players competed in eight Grade 3 singles events over four days of competition. The standard of play in all events was high with most of Scotland's top young players and many from further afield competing. Tournament Referee, John Stevenson, praised the players for their competitive but extremely fair play throughout with no incidents of any kind in more than 200 matches played.

Sixteen-year-old Jacob Fearnley justified his top seeding in the boys' 18 & Under age group, beating fellow Merchiston School student Charlie Miller 6-3 6-3 in a final of exceptional shot making. Savannah Dada-Mascoll made the most of her journey north by taking the girl's title in this age group, beating Milly Wood [Braid], seeded 2, in the final 6-0 6-4.

In the Scottish Junior Indoor Doubles Championships Edinburgh's Lucia Rizza and Rosie Sterk from Stonehaven were Scotland's star performers. A victory in the final of the 18 & Under event against the second seeds Annabel Burns and Emily Gates was followed by a 6-4 6-2 win over top seeds Sophie James and Eilidh McLaughlin in the final of the 16 & Under competition.

Cumbrian pair Billy Blaydes and James Hale also won two titles at Scotstoun - the Boys' 18 & Under championship with a 6-0 6-3 win over Samuel MacLeod and Gregor Stott followed, on Day 2, with an epic 6-7(10) 6-1 [10-6] victory in the 16 & Under final over the unseeded pair from Northumberland Harry Cookson and Will Gray.

The 44th staging of the Scottish Junior Inter District Championships concluded at Kilgraston School with Central District and West of Scotland sharing the overall championship for 2018.

Central won two age group titles - retaining its 12 & Under title against West in the final and taking the 15 & Under championship with a final 4-2 victory over West. West had consolation in the 18 & Under competition where a tie-break shoot-out decided the outcome of the oldest age group against Tayside and earned a share of the overall championship. North East, the overall champions in 2017, defended its title valiantly but finished in 5th position behind Tayside and East of Scotland.

Edinburgh schools Merchiston Castle and George Watson's College won the boys' and girls' Scottish Secondary Schools Tennis Team Champions respectively for the 2nd year in a row. The finals, which took place at St George's Schools for Girls in Edinburgh, saw eight teams from schools across the country come together for a great day of semi-final and final action.

Merchiston Castle School faced The High School of Glasgow in the final who put in a tough fight for the second year running but Merchiston proved too strong and went home with the trophy for the sixth year running.

Meanwhile, in the girls' draw The High School of Glasgow yet again made an appearance in the finals but George Watson's came away triumphant for the second consecutive year.

The 2018 Scottish Junior Championships, a Grade 2 Summer National Tour event, attracted more than 300 of the most talented young players from throughout Great Britain. Scotland's Patrick Young won the 18 & Under boys' doubles championships.

Top Scottish performance in the singles event came from Edinburgh's Milly Wood in the 18 & Under girls' event. Seeded 7, Milly won through to the final but missed out by losing an epic 3 sets match.

Five different venues were used this year to run the championships and Tennis Scotland thanks all clubs and their members for successfully hosting events.

Nike Junior International Edinburgh and Scottish Junior Closed makes week 2 of the summer term of one of the busiest periods in Tennis Scotland's calendar with these staged events taking place the same week at Edinburgh and at Houston.

Scotland's James MacKinlay remained unbeaten as the ITF 18 & Under Junior International ended at the Thistle club in Edinburgh. The 17-year-old second seed took the singles title with a 6-4 6-4 victory. MacKinlay then partnered Aberdeen's Ross Martin to a 6-4 1-6 [10-8] victory in the 18 & under Doubles.

The 2018 Scottish Junior Closed Championships took place at Strathgryffe Tennis & Squash Club in Houston, Renfrewshire. Once again, the Strathgryffe club acted as perfect hosts to the 200 entries received from players of all junior age groups with a Scottish play county. Honours were spread around players from all 4 Scottish counties - North, South, East and West. The cream of Scotland's 18 & Under players displayed their considerable talents in August when the 53rd edition of the Scottish Junior Inter County Championships was played at the Prestwick Tennis Centre in Ayrshire.

The Tea Cup, as the event is affectionately known, is a team event contested by boys and girls from the four play counties in Scotland with the champion team winning a trophy donated by the Tea Council of Scotland in 1966.

North of Scotland won this year's title with East finishing runners up. West beat South in the 3rd/4th play-off.

Tennis Scotland delivered 52 Junior Winter County Tour Events, in 2018 there were more than 600 entries across all the junior age groups. These events take place at indoor centres around Scotland and give some invaluable competition throughout the winter months.

Seniors

Scottish players were on winning form as the 2018 ITF Scottish Seniors Open Championships took place at Scotstoun. One of the most popular destinations on the ITF Seniors circuit, the championships in Glasgow attracted more than 200 entries from players from 11 different nations for the ITF Grade 3 event staged by Tennis Scotland. The 35 & Over men's and women's championships, the youngest age group events, were won by Nottinghamshire's Maia Dunn and by home favourite Jordan Gray who won a hard-hitting final match against the German second seed Bastien Hehner in straight sets, 6-1 6-2. Four singles titles and four doubles championships were won by Scottish players.

Overall Scotland finished as runners-up to England as the 2018 Four Nations' Championships concluded in Ireland in May. Men's and women's teams from England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales at the 55, 60 and 65 & Over age groups competed over three days of play at the Lansdowne Lawn Tennis Club in Dublin.

The 19-player strong Scotland squad was representing Scotland over the six categories of Ladies and Men's 55+, 60+ and 65+.

FINANCE REPORT

For the year ended 31 December 2018

Turnover for the year was £1,968,923 compared to £1,865,197 in the prior year, an increase of £103,726. Income from the LTA and Tennis Foundation has increased by £64,515, mainly due to an increase in facilities funding received from the LTA. Sponsorship income has increased by £23,158 after the board focussed on exploring opportunities to attract new sponsors during the year. A funding agreement is in place with sportscotland up to end March 2022.

2018 TURNOVER £1,968,923
2017 TURNOVER £1,865,197
INCREASE OF £103,726

Expenditure has increased by £142,586 from £1,886,556 in the prior year to £2,029,142. This is mainly due to an increase in amounts spent across the organisation including performance, development, tournaments and staffing during the year compared to the prior year. Meanwhile there were tighter controls on administrative and marketing costs, reducing expenditure in this area from £193,703 to £165,733.

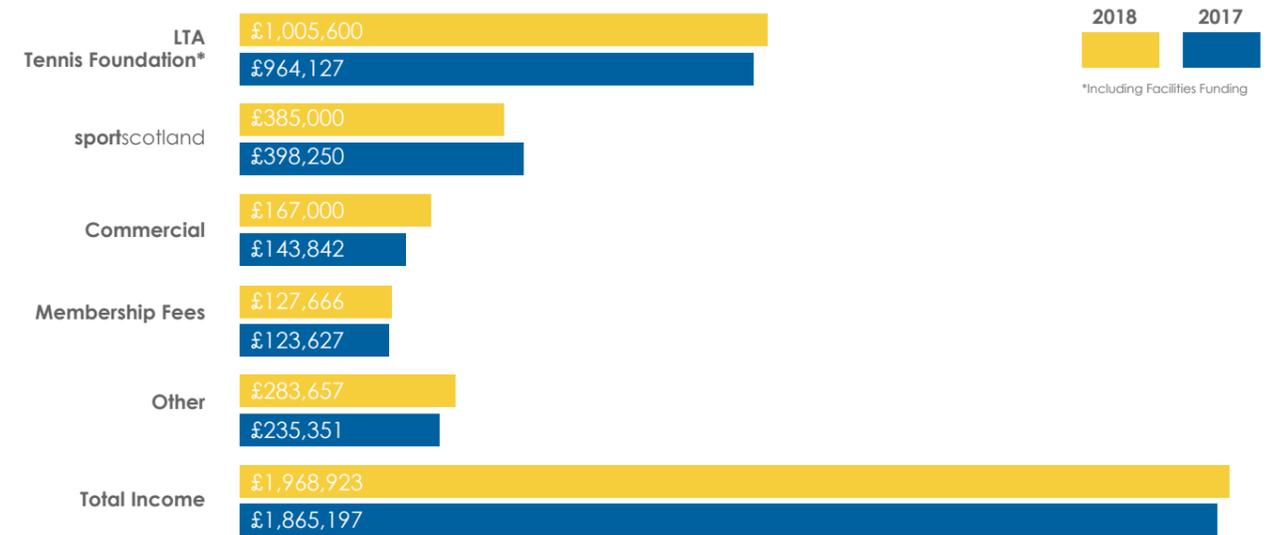

Tennis Scotland's balance sheet at 31st December 2018 shows a stable position with reserves of £414,750. Cash at bank has remained steady at £686,235 compared to £682,368 in the previous year. Debtors have increased from £39,521 to £69,146 as a result of an increase in accrued income at the year end, due to the timing of agreed funding received from the LTA and the SLTF. Creditors have also increased because of timing differences, with some facilities funding received before the year end not claimed by the various projects that Tennis Scotland supports until 2019.

The Tennis Scotland accounts for the year ended 31 December 2018 show a loss of £58,377 compared to a loss in the prior year of £19,906. The loss has been met by the reserves of the company. The board are satisfied that the company has sufficient reserves and future funding in place to allow the company to continue operating from a stable financial position in the year ahead.

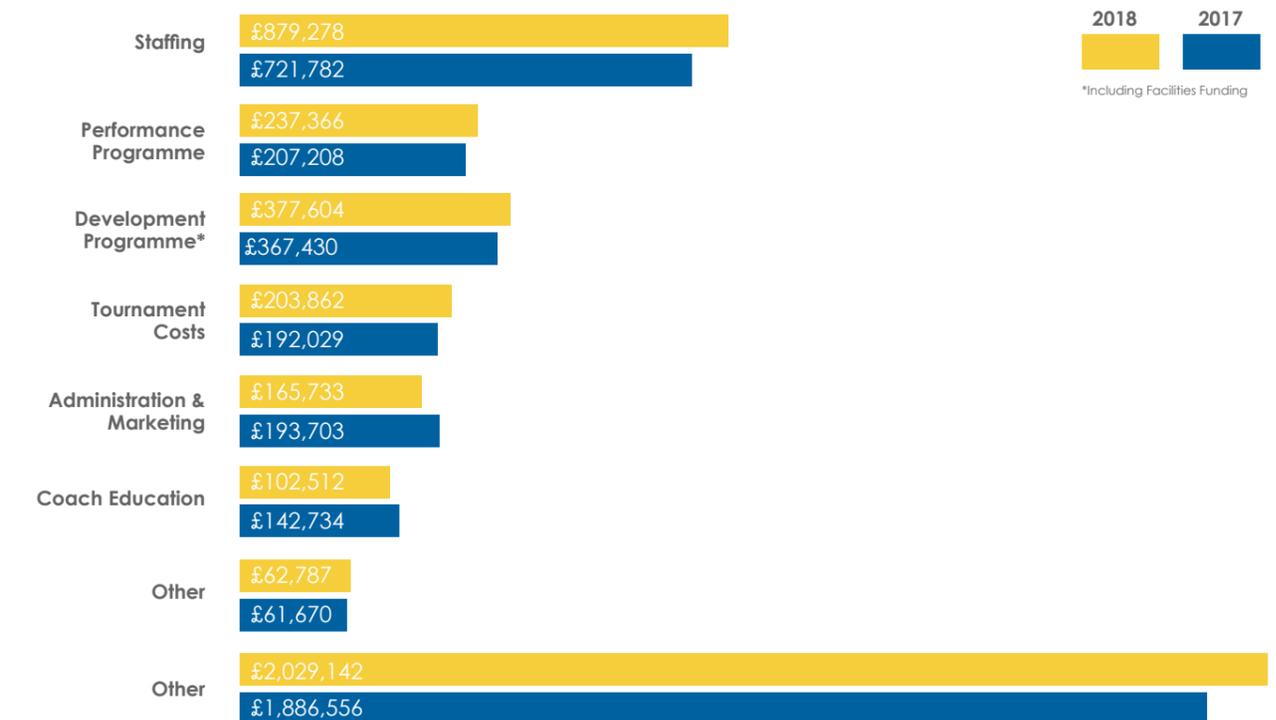

Copies of the profit and loss account and balance sheet from the audited financial statements are included within this report. The full set of Tennis Scotland financial statements are available on request.
